To the Principal and school staff

Dear Sir/Madam

CRS Australia has a long history of being a premier provider of services to people with a disability. Following the Commonwealth Government’s introduction of initiatives to support young people to stay engaged in meaningful work or study, CRS Australia, a Disability Employment Service Provider, developed a program to support young people. In particular, CRS Australia aims to help young people in mainstream education that have a barrier such as anxiety, depression, an eating disorder, bipolar mood disorder, diabetes, chronic fatigue syndrome, acquired brain injury, conduct disorders and learning and developmental disorders.

CRS Australia works with eligible* school leavers, providing a free, confidential and individualised service, to help students:

- maintain engagement, or
- reengage with schools, or
- transition to apprenticeship or work.

CRS Australia is part of the Commonwealth Department of Human Services and is funded by DEEWR for service provision.

Before CRS Australia staff can work with a minor they must undertake a working with children check, where it is a requirement in their state or territory, or a vulnerable persons check every three years, where there are no working with children check requirements in their state or territory. This is in addition to the criminal history check which is automatically conducted when staff first commence with CRS Australia.

CRS Australia is a national organisation and has offices in SA in both metropolitan and rural sites. Our staff are tertiary qualified and provide individually tailored programs in partnership with the school, parents and other interested parties. We aim to provide a value add, and complimentary service.

I would be happy to visit your school and discuss what support CRS Australia can offer and look forward to hearing from you.
